

DAYANAND COLLEGE OF COMMERCE, LATUR

Experiential Learning Activity: Mock Stock

About Activity: Virtual electronic goods and Virtual currency is provided to students. In a class room some are selected as buyer and some sellers. Buying and selling of those goods is done among buyers and sellers. Sellers try to earn maximum profit and buyers try to save maximum virtual amount given to them. At the end of this activity, highest earner is selected as best seller and highest money saver is selected as best buyer.

Total Participants: 82

Date: 25.07.2025 to 28.07.2025

Objectives:

1. Understand Market Dynamics: To provide students with a practical understanding of how demand and supply affect the price of goods in a competitive market.
2. Develop Decision-Making Skills: To enable students to make quick and informed buying or selling decisions under changing market conditions.
3. Learn Price Fluctuation Mechanisms: To illustrate how product value (like a smartphone or laptop) changes due to consumer preferences, new launches, or availability.
4. Enhance Financial Literacy: To build knowledge about profit, loss, and investment strategies while dealing with limited resources.
5. Promote Analytical Thinking: To encourage students to analyse trends, anticipate future price changes, and strategize accordingly.
6. Encourage Teamwork and Negotiation: To foster collaboration, bargaining, and communication skills when working in buyer/seller groups.
7. Simulate Real-Life Business Environment: To give a hands-on experience of how trading works in markets (though simplified from the stock market, applied to electronic goods).
8. Risk Management Practice: To help students understand how to manage uncertainty, risks, and competition in trading activities.
