13	Purpose/aim/objective and outcome of the event	Aim: The aim of the Rabies Awareness Programme is to educate students and faculty about rabies, its causes, modes of transmission (mainly through dog bites), symptoms, prevention methods, and the importance of timely vaccination. Outcome: The outcomes of the programme include improved awareness among participants about the seriousness of rabies as a preventable disease, better understanding of first aid measures and vaccination procedures after animal bites, and increased responsibility towards animal safety and public health.

14. Complete Activity Report (Description)

The Rabies Awareness Programme was conducted to educate students and faculty about rabies, its causes, transmission through animal bites (especially dogs), symptoms, prevention, and the importance of timely vaccination. A total of 85 participants (40 male students, 34 female students, 9 male faculty, and 2 female faculty) actively attended the programme.

The session highlighted immediate first aid after animal bites, including washing the wound and seeking medical treatment without delay. It also focused on vaccination procedures, responsible pet handling, and prevention strategies. Common myths about rabies were clarified, and participants were encouraged to spread awareness in their community.

Overall, the programme successfully enhanced awareness about rabies prevention, early treatment, and public health responsibility.
